HTW11 kicks off in London

Last Monday at the IMO + London, the 11th meeting of the Sub-Committee on Human Element, Training and Watchkeeping (HTW11) kicked off.

Revision of STCW Convention

The working group on the revision of the IMO STCW Convention + has continued its work. This working group focused on identifying gaps in the convention to ensure it is future-proofed and better aligned with the developments in shipping. Phase 1 of the review has now been completed and during the next meeting, the working group will continue with phase 2. Herein, substantive proposals for amendments to the convention will be made.

Tjitso Westra of the KVNR participated in this working group on behalf of ICS.

Development of interim training guidelines

Another working group has begun developing interim training guidelines. These will focus on training seafarers working with alternative fuels and new technologies. The demand within the industry for these guidelines is increasing. Therefore, it is crucial to accelerate this process and separate it from the broader STCW review.

Noa Vork of the KVNR participated in the discussions in this working group at the invitation of the Dutch government.

Validation of Model Courses

A third working group was involved in the validation of several Model Courses including:

- GMDSS
- Company Security Officer
- Port Facility Security Officer

These Model Courses serve as guidance for the development of STCW training courses, but are not mandatory.
